

19th Century Phrases and Meanings

Phrases	Meanings
" . . . have orange leaves . . . "
" . . . attended with febril heat and much pain . . . "
" . . . give him the powder mixed with . . . "
" . . . and the pulse small . . . "
" . . . have orange leaves . . . "
" . . . above the atmospheric temperature . . . "
" . . . let the senna and the manna . . . "
" . . . until it excites copious purging . . . "
" . . . occasion to rise to the vessel . . . "
" . . . give a full dose of castor oil . . . "
" . . . essence of peppermint . . . "
" . . . half a siedlitz powder . . . "
" . . . a tumbler of water . . . "
" . . . but adding a squab or chicken . . . "
"As the convalescence advances . . . "
" . . . to his usual mode of living . . . "
" . . . will be disarmed of its terrors . . . "
" . . . and do not vary to the right hand or to the left . . . "	